HOW THIS WAS MEASURED — Visual review of the 9 pages that matter most to a patient's decision — Home · Contact Us · PASADENA DENTIST · GALLERY · Pasadena Cosmetic Dentist Reviews · Cosmetic Dentistry Procedures · TMJ Treatment in Pasadena, CA · Best Invisalign Pasadena CA · FINANCING — captured at real phone and desktop sizes and reviewed on October 06, 2026.

Performance, Accessibility, Best Practices and SEO scores come from Google Lighthouse through the PageSpeed Insights API, mobile strategy.

The 2026 Standard is a fixed checklist of yes/no facts looked for in the pages we loaded.

FINDING 01

Contact Us - Mobile, Pasadena Cosmetic Dentist Reviews - Mobile and 2 more

No direct appointment booking button on mobile

While desktop features a prominent 'REQUEST APPOINTMENT' button in the primary header, mobile eliminates this call to action entirely. Visitors browsing on a phone who prefer digital scheduling over placing a direct phone call must scroll through lengthy service descriptions before finding any consultation prompt.

WHY IT MATTERS – OUR ESTIMATE

Anxious or busy patients who avoid phone calls are likely to abandon the page rather than hunt for a way to book online.

FINDING 02

Home - Mobile, PASADENA DENTIST - Mobile

Hero headline text blends into the background imagery

The primary headline text ('Oral Care That Suits You Perfectly / Pasadena Dentist') is displayed in a thin font directly across the split seam of two busy background photos. Without a solid background card or sufficient contrast, the letters clash with the underlying imagery and are difficult to read comfortably on a handheld screen.

WHY IT MATTERS – OUR ESTIMATE

A hard-to-read headline weakens the practice's first impression within the first few seconds of a visit.

FINDING 03

Pasadena Cosmetic Dentist Reviews - Mobile & Desktop

Reviews list features blank entries, outdated dates, and an unresolved billing grievance

The testimonials displayed on this page date back to January 2018, and several entries contain star ratings with completely blank text. More critically, one of the prominently displayed reviews describes an unresolved insurance refund dispute with the billing department. High-ticket dental patients vetting a practice need reassurance, and displaying uncurated administrative complaints alongside outdated feedback actively undermines confidence.

WHY IT MATTERS – OUR ESTIMATE

Anxious patients evaluating high-value procedures may question the office's current management and choose a competitor with more recent, reassuring social proof.

Each line is a yes/no fact from the pages we loaded for this checklist, with where it was found. A ✗ means we checked (9 pages loaded for this checklist) and the item was not found or did not work. Items marked "not verified" could not be confirmed and are not counted.

On a phone this site scored 62/100 in Google's mobile performance test and took 16.8s to show its main content. Those figures are measured. Google rates anything over 4 seconds as slow; in its test your homepage took 16.8 seconds — about 4 times that. What slow loading costs in visitors is an estimate: slow pages generally lose some people before the page appears. We do not have your traffic data, so we do not put a number on it.

When a person is choosing between practices, a site that makes it easy to call or book gives them one less reason to look elsewhere. The overall conclusion from this audit is that the current website does not match the premium level of care your practice provides, clearly indicating the need for a professional redesign. We cannot see your own inquiry numbers, so this is a direction, not a measurement of anything your practice has lost.

This audit is based on publicly visible pages and on Google's own performance data. We do not have access to your internal analytics, so nothing here describes your own traffic or results. Every statement above is either measured on the pages we loaded (and dated), or marked as our reading or an estimate.
